Letter From the President

Welcome to ASSC 2016 and our first edition of Features and Profiles under our new Newsletter Editor, Ryan Sipe, welcome aboard Ryan! Welcome as well to our new Executive Committee members and many thanks to ongoing and outgoing volunteers. I look forward to working with all of you over the next two years and getting to know as many members as possible at ASSC events. Before I get ahead of myself, let me reiterate my belief that Features and Profiles is the heartbeat of our organization (yes, I myself was once the lonely Editor). Please keep Ryan extremely busy in his editing duties over the next two years by sending your informative ideas, photos, suggestions, and engaging stories to rsipe@edwardspitman.com.

The Executive Committee held our first meeting in January. Please join us for future meetings beginning at our annual business meeting at the Annual Conference on South Carolina Archaeology Feb 20th. (8:00 am-5:00 pm, Gambrell Hall, Room 153, University of South Carolina). This year's conference theme is Settlement Archaeology in honor of Santa Elena's 450th anniversary. Dr. David Moore will present our keynote address, Fort San Juan: Lost (1568) and Found (2013) on Saturday. On Friday the 19th at 3:00 pm in 412 Gambrell Hall, Dr. Moore will present a colloquium entitled "Exploring Joara and Fort San Juan: Public Archaeology and Professional Responsibilities at the Berry Site." A reception will follow in the 4th floor lobby. Also on the 19th, join us at lakes on Devine Street at 6:30 pm for a showing of the documentary Square Holes: Digging the Kolb Site.

Future Executive Committee meetings will begin at 1:30 pm at SCIAA on April 23rd, June 18th, August 6th, and November 19th. If you have agenda items that you would like to see discussed at our meetings, please forward them to any member of the Executive Committee or better yet, join us at SCIAA. Many new committees were formed at our first meeting and need member input and volunteer support. Complete committee information and sign-ups will be available at the conference. Additionally, committee and all ASSC updates will be availathe new website (https:// archaeologysc.org) as it is finalized, so check it out, (many thanks to Rebecca and Bach).

On March 26th (9:00 am - 12:00 pm at SCIAA) a Spring Workshop will be taught by Mount Vernon Lab Director, Karen Price, who will show us all how to take and process beautiful and detailed digital photographs of artifacts. Space for the workshop may be limited so RSVP Brandy Joy at joybk@email.sc.edu if possible.

2016 is shaping up to be a busy year for ASSC and we have some interesting events and projects to present to the membership in the coming months. Right now, what we are most in need of is more ASSC Chapters. Chapters may be organized by 10 or more members of the society under Article 3 of the Bylaws. Public outreach and education are crucial to stimulate growth and generate new member interest. I can't think of a better way to accomplish our purpose than to develop more ASSC Chapters. I challenge each of you to strongly consider doing so.

All the Best, Chan Funk, President

Chapter Updates

Foothills

Julius Dargan of the Spartanburg County Historical Society was our speaker for the February meeting. He spoke on the Confederate monument in Spartanburg County, the men that returned from the war, and how Spartanburg quickly arose as a bustling city. During the meeting one of our members showed us a full grooved ax found in Cherokee County, and another member found a antique road marker from the late 1880-1930 timeline in the Five Forks area of Greenville County. He would like to give it to the Greenville County Historical Society.

Lamar Nelson visited the Walnut Grove Plantation recently, to check on the excavation units put in place in June 2014. He plans to meet the new director of the historical society soon for conversations on future work at the site. Several members plan to attend the ASSC conference February 20th. Lamar Nelson and Bob Hanselman will be at a flint knapping event in Forest City N.C. on February 27th.

Our chapter will be participating in the spring festival at Walnut Grove March 5th and 6th. This event was cancelled in the fall due to bad weather. Our chapter will be representing the ASSC and will do artifact identification, produce gunflints for the riflemen, answer questions on archaeology and history, and display artifacts. Laura Price has now taken over as newsletter editor for the chapter, replacing Bob Hanselman, who is taking a break after several years at that position. It has really been cold, and wet in the upstate, but that hasn't stopped our members form attending our meetings and participating in events. We now have every chapter member signed up as both chapter and state members and added 4 new members at our February meeting. I want to thank all of them for this, and would like to see some of the ASSC officers, and other archaeologist in the state come up for a visit or present a program to a hard working chapter that represents the ASSC well.

- Lamar Nelson

Hilton Head

The Hilton Head Chapter continues its monthly programs of quality archaeological presentations. In November, Rick Kanaski, the Archaeologist and Regional Historical Preservation Officer for U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service's Southeast Region, spoke to us on his research on the Gullah Community at the Harris Neck National Wildlife Refuge, Georgia. In December, we had our annual Christmas social. In January, James Spirek, the State Underwater Archaeologist with the Maritime Division of SCIAA, spoke to us about the Stone Fleets in the War Between the States. In February, Stacey Young, who is with TRC, gave us a very interesting presentation on her six years of archaeological excavations and interpretation efforts at Hampton Plantation State Historic Site, located near McClellanville, South Carolina. In March, we will have a presentation by the Santa Elena Foundation on their work at the Santa Elena site on Parris Island. We also plan to have a field trip to the Santa Elena site.

- David Gordon

Call For Nominations:

ASSC / 2015 Distinguished Archaeologist of the Year Award. Please submit a name(s) and a few sentences about your nominee to Stacey Young (stacslyyoung@hotmail.com) by February 19th. A winner will be selected by ballot of the Executive Committee and the award presented at the Annual Conference on South Carolina Archaeology on February 20th.

ASSC Grant-in-Aid

The Grant-in-Aid Program was established to assist graduate students in their thesis or dissertation research. Funds raised during the course of the year are available on a competitive basis to graduate students, both at USC and out-of-state universities, who are working on theses or dissertations that pertain to the archaeology of South Carolina.

ASSC Meeting Minutes - Early Days

The Archaeology Society of began in 1969. The earliest Society correspondence contains meeting and programming notices; but it's not until the very end of 1969 that records minutes begin. A small scruffy notebook contains some of the earliest history of the ASSC. This notebook contains hand-written minutes from December 1969 to December 1971.

The earliest entry is included below (see Fig. 1). It's probable these minutes were later typed; but if so they've not survived. The only "typed" report from this period dates from February 21, 1970 (see Fig. 2) Interestingly enough they are the minutes of the "Amateur Archeological Society" though this was not the name of the organization at this time.

This summer the ASSC Archivist will digitize the meeting minutes of the Society. They chronicle the almost fifty year history of our organization and are a great learning resource.

MINUTES OF MEETING of AMATEUR ARCHEOLOGICAL SOCIETY

February 21, 1970

Mr. Tom Edwards, Treasurer of the Society, opened the meeting in the absence of the President, Jim Mickie who was at the airport to meet the speaker for the evening.

Mr. Edwards told about the archeological seminar which has been set up in Florence, South Carolina to provide an opportunity for people to meet and discuss archeology even though they may not be able to attend the meetings of the Amateur Archeological Society in Columbia. The seminar meets on the first Monday evening of each month. There have been four meetings up to this time, with attendance averaging about 30, although as many as 50 people attended one meeting. No dues are charged for the seminar Dr. Stephenson and Jim Mickie have each met with the group and spoke to them.

Dr. Stephenson mentioned that Someone at Rock Hill had spoken to h8m about forming a similar group. Also, Roy Lyons and Carl Hurdy have expressed interest in jorganizing a group of this kind at Aiken. Dr. Stephenson feels that this kind of meeting is a good idea as a supplement to the state society. It can be used to spark interest among people who cannot get in to the state jsociety meetings. He volunteered that either Mr. Edwards or he, himself, would be glad to work with anyone interested in seeing such a group formed in any community.

Mr. Carl Hurdy asked whether the seminar group had any community project going. Mr. Edwards said that they have many sites reported: historic sites, the Naval Yard at PeeDee, the Confederate Prison site, and others. The most the seminar group does is to ;make surface surveys. He emphasized that they discourage anyone digging unless the digging is supervised by qualified people. Mr. Hurdy suggested that a training session might be a good idea, and Mr. Edwards stated that he hoped that the state organization would arrange for a site to be used as a demonstration site, showing how a proper excavation is carried out; that Dr. Stephenson would instruct people in proper techniques, how to record sites, etc.

The question arose of "Who are the qualified people"? Mr. Edwards pointed out that you find qualified people in many communities, such as Gene Waddell who has specialized in pottery, a geologist in the Florence area.

ASSC Executive Committee Meeting - January 2016

The ASSC Executive Committee held the first of its regular bi-monthly meetings this year on Saturday, January 9, in the Thomas Cooper Library at the University of South Carolina. The meeting was facilitated by our new president, Chan Funk, and was attended by James Stewart - Outgoing President, Savannah Hulon - Treasurer, Rebecca Shepherd - Secretary, Brent Burgin - Archivist, Ryan Sipe - Newsletter Editor, Christopher Moore - Journal Editor, and Members at Large: Karen Smith, Walter Clifford, Josh Chaplin, and Stacey Young. We were also fortunate to have David Gordon - President of the Hilton Head Chapter and Bach Pham in attendance.

Highlights:

The meeting began by approving the July 2015 meeting minutes and moved on to officer reports:

Secretary Report

The previous meetings minutes were sent out and there were no corrections. We need to focus on encouraging membership renewals and new memberships

Treasurer's Report

We haven't had a lot of changes in the balance over the last quarter because we didn't have Fall Field Day. The main change is paying the annual fee for the website. The journal hasn't gone out yet, which will greatly impact our current balance.

Archivist Report

Brent is planning to pick up all of the remaining copies of Antiquities from SCIAA and create an inventory of all of the past journals. He also wants to digitize all of the hard copies of Features and Profile and would like to start having an archivist contribution to the newsletter.

Newsletter Editor

Sarah has gotten Ryan up to speed on the newsletter. He will get a set schedule in place for when the newsletter will be released soon. The next one will be out before the conference.

Journal Editor-

The 2015 issue is almost ready. Chris had some trouble getting articles and is still waiting to receive one more.

2016 Projects/Committee Reports

Conference:

James Stewart, provided an overview of what the Conference/Annual Business Meeting typical entails for all new officers. This year's conference theme is Settlement Archaeology/450 Years of Exploration/Santa Elena.

Fall Field Day:

Holding this year's FFD at USC Aiken's Science Education and Enrichment Day is a strong possibility. It was also suggested that ASSC begin attending and having a booth/demonstration at multiple festivals around the state, throughout the year, as well as having more presence at Chapter events.

Grant-in-Aid:

James said that Brooke Brilliant plans to put out a call for proposals following today's meeting.

There is a standing committee for Grant-in-aid that includes Brooke Brilliant, Aaron Brumitt, Ramona Grunden, and Ken Kelly. But it was suggested at a current board member should also be on the committee.

Merchandise:

We need to create a current inventory of merchandise and then we can discuss ordering new items.

Social Media:

We need to either consider getting rid of the face-book group (and just having our official FB page) or if we can turn off comments and leave the group static. Whether a full social media position is needed was briefly discussed, but the solution was to possibly have a board member at large handle it. If anyone has any ideas about social media, they should be sent to Becca.

Spring Workshop:

This year's spring workshop was proposed to be a photography workshop with Mount Vernon lab manager, Karen Price, organized by Brandy Joy. The board unanimously approved this workshop idea. The workshop will be offered free to ASSC members and held at SCIAA. There should be a cap of ~25 participants due to space restraints in SCIAA.

Website:

Bach showed the new website and gave a brief introduction of all he has done. It will be hosted under a new domain: archaeologysc.org. The goal is to have the website ready by the conference so we can showcase it there.

Unfinished Business

Bylaw Changes:

We need to have new fees and bylaw changes set by the conference so we can present them. We can discuss them at the business meeting, but the proposed changes and ballots need to be sent out 30 days prior to a vote.

The proposed certification program will be considered with bylaw changes, since the ability to offer this will need to be written into the bylaws.

Field Project:

The field project is something the society used to hold years ago and we began discussing bringing back last year.

Outreach/Marketing/Advertising:

James thinks that there should be one person in charge of organizing outreach, marketing, and advertising. Stacey says that it is important to present at other festivals and advertise to people who aren't us. The Society has become very insular in the past few years. We are missing the non-professional component. The item will be continued as unfinished business.

New Business

Budget:

Savannah's proposed budget was unanimously approved following some changes to the amount for FFD.

Meeting Calendar:

These dates were proposed for this year's meetings: February 20th, during the Conference business meeting April 23rd June 18th August 6th

November 19th

Meetings will be held at 1:30 in the SCIAA education room

Committees Formed:

Conference Committee Chair: Keith Stephenson (dkstephe@mailbox.sc.edu). Members: James Stewart, Karen Smith, Stacey Young, Carl Steen

Fall Field Day Committee – Chair: Chris Moore (cmoore@srarp.org). Members: BJ Clifford, James Stewart, Keith Stephenson, Becca Shepherd

"Exploring Joara and Fort San Juan: Public Archaeology and Professional Responsibilities at the Berry Site."

David Moore, Robin Beck and Christopher Rodning have conducted excavations at the Berry site since 1986. Throughout that time they have attempted to meet the demands and standards of modern professional archaeological excavations while working within an explicitly public archaeological framework. David Moore will talk about balancing both of these goals at the Berry site ~ the location of the sixteenth century Native American town of Joara and Fort San Juan, the earliest (AD 1566~1568) European settlement in the U.S. interior, located in Burke County, NC.

Volunteer Opportunity!

The Applied Research Division will be working at the Belle W. Baruch Foundation's Hobcaw Barony, Georgetown, SC, from Feb. 22 to Mar. 4, 2016. This two-week field project -- funded by a Historic Preservation Grant from the South Carolina Department of Archives and History with a match from the Archaeological Research Trust -- is part of an ongoing, collaborative effort to explore Native American and Colonial settlement on the 16,000acre research preserve. During this session, we will systematically shovel test inside the enclosure at Hobcaw House, connecting two areas that Professor Jim Michie and team surveyed along Winyah Bay in 1990-91 with a portion of the property never before studied. Volunteers are welcome to join us. Housing can be provided. Please contact Karen Smith (smithky2@mailbox.sc.edu) for more information.

Archaeological Archive Flood Recovery Project

2016 Spring Schedule

The S.C. Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Heritage Trust archaeologists are seeking volunteers to assist in the Archaeological Archive Flood Recovery Project. Volunteers will work with professional archaeologists to process artifacts from sites across South Carolina impacted by the 2015 Flood. No experience is required. Those wishing to volunteer may contact Meg Gaillard, DNR Heritage Trust archaeologist, at 803-528-1455 or by e-mail at GaillardM@dnr.sc.gov.

The 2016 spring recovery work will take place each Wednesday and Friday from 9 am - 7pm. Work will begin on Wednesday, January 13, 2016 and end on Friday, May 27, 2016. Recovery work will take place in the old Lexington Two Fine Arts Center on the corner of B Avenue and 9th Street in West Columbia (GPS address: 826 B Avenue, West Columbia, SC 29169). Although walk-in volunteers are welcome, scheduled volunteer hours are encouraged.

2011 Field School Participants uncover a dragon kiln at Pottersville

Join us at the Pottersville ("Landrumsville") site for archaeology in the summer of 2016! We return for another season of field research on the amazing heritage and history of Edgefield pottery production. Our 2016 investigations will focus on the areas of the turning shed and pug mill, which were located just downslope from the extraordinary "dragon" kiln built there circa 1815.

Students and volunteers will work in supervised teams, learning to uncover the archaeological record as members of an investigative team, with skills employed by professional archaeologists. You receive training in the techniques of surveying, interpreting geophysical and LiDAR data, excavations, mapping, artifact classification, and contextual interpretations. Laboratory processing and analysis will also be ongoing during the field season. Evening talks by project staff, visiting archaeologists, and historians will focus on the history and heritage of Edgefield and how field data are used to answer archaeological and historical research questions. Lodging will be provided at the beautiful Edgefield Inn (http://www.edgefieldinn.com/). For more information and to download an application form, please contact Chris Fennell at cfennell@illinois.edu or 312-513-2683, and visit our project web site at http://www.histarch.illinois.edu/Edgefield/.
